CANVASING BOARD COMPLETES WORK

Report Shows Reduction of Big Democratic Majorities in County Ticket.

HONAN LEADS STATE TICKET

For First Time Socialists Put Complete Ticket in Field—Given Light Vote.

The board of canvassers have completed their work of canvassing the vote in Jackson county and have announced the officials returns for all the candidates. The returns show that the democratic majority is reduced somewhat over previous years, and that the republicans made good gains on the county ticket. The greatest interest was shown in the vote for sheriff which was the closest on the county ticket.

The final returns for the vote on this office, however, show that Mc-Osker is elected by a majority of thirteen. The second lowest candidate on the democratic county ticket is Isaacs, candidate for recorder who was elected by a majority of 204 votes. Both Goecker and Brand made excellent races which show their popularity with the voters of the county.

For the first time in the history of Jackson county, the Socialists placed a complete ticket in the field. While they did not expect to receive a majority of the votes cast, they took this means to ascertain their exact vote in the county. The vote cast was light, however, the leading candidate, R. C. Townsend, for congress, receiving only 138. The other candidates received about 65 each, a few getting a little larger vote.

Thomas M. Honan candidate for attorney general was given the largest plurality which was 1131 over his opponent. Ellingham, for secretary of state, was second highest with a plurality of 976 votes over Gulley, the republican candidate.

Judge O. H. Montgomery lead the Republican state ticket by over 100 votes.

As was expected Lincoln Dixon candidate for congress received a good majority. His opponent, John H. Kamman of this city, was taken ill several days before the election which kept him from making as a complete a canvass of the county as he desired. Dixon's majority over Kamman according to the official county, was 879.

Noble Hays received 2692 votes in this county for prosecuting attorney against 1836 for his opponent, Frank Brady, of Crothersville. This gave Hays a plurality of 856.

John Branaman, candidate for representative was given a plurality of 803 over his opponent, Dr. George C. Ray. The former received 2639 while 1869 votes were cast for the republican candidate.

The majority of Willard Stout for county clerk was reduced to 733. He received a total of 2626 against 1893 for Ezra Whitecomb.

Henry Price received 2700 votes for treasurer and his opponent was given 1816 votes giving the former a majority of 884 votes.

Frank Dowden, who was candidate for coroner, was elected by 744 votes. He received 2629 votes and his opponent Claude Sims received 1885. C. M. Beldon, for surveyor, was elected by 666 votes he having received 2517 against 1917 of his opponent, Bruce Bard.

James Cross the present count assessor was elected by 784 votes. The republican candidate, Laben Sstep, received 1860 while Mr. Cross was given a total vote of 2644.

J. Tormoehlen was elected commissioner of the first district, by 858 majority, he having received 2670 votes and his republican opponent, William H. Peters, 1812. Sherman Hall, was elected commissioner from the second district, with a majority of 835 votes. He received 2676 and his opponent Joseph N. White, 1841. Seven Democratic county councilmen were elected without opposition as follows: First district, John W. Fountain; second district, Jas. F. Conner; third district, August Elsner; fourth district, Henry Bettenbrock; at large, John B. Burrell, Jas. B. Thompson and Wm. Buse.

The tabulated vote by precincts is given on page 3.

THOMAS M. HONAN IS SUCCESSFUL

Seymour Again Represented With Important Office at The State House.

MUST LIVE IN INDIANAPOLIS

Friends, Regardless of Political Faith, Offer Their Congratulations.

From the latest returns Thomas M. Honan, of this city, will be the next attorney general of the state of Indiana. Although the returns for the candidates on the state ticket are not official, it is conceded that the final vote will show large democratic pluralities.

The election of Mr. Honan as attorney general is not only an honor for himself but for his city and county and he has been receiving the congratulations from his democratic and republican friends. Mr. Honan has been in Indianapolis since the election, but will return here in a few days.

The position of attorney general is one of the highest of offices in the state and it is a compliment to Mr. Honan to be chosen for the place. He is qualified and able, however, to perform the important duties of the office in such a way as to reflect credit upon himself. As a lawyer his ability is well recognized and he has a high standing among the attorneys of the state.

Two years ago he was elected speaker of the House of Representatives of which he had been a member for several years, and in that capacity he did his work well. Although a representative of the democratic party he was always fair in his rulings and has many friends among the republican representatives who were members with him.

Shortly after he was admitted to the Jackson county bar he became active in democratic political affairs and has been a leader of his party for several years. He served as prosecuting attorney, which was one of the first public offices to which he was elected. He has practiced his profession in Seymour with much success and has at all times maintained the dignity of his profession.

The law requires that all the state officials, with the exception of the judges of the supreme court who are elected from districts, shall live in Indianapolis. Mr. Honan will take his office January 1, 1910.

TO CONTINUE STRIKE

More Strike Breakers Taken in Washington Shops.

The Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern Railroad Company is making arrangements for carrying on of the machinists' strike throughout the winter months, judging from things that have happened within the last few days.

Monday night at 10 o'clock a second number 1 arrived from the east. It was a train of strikebreakers brought here direct from the Mt. Clare shops in Baltimore. They numbered twenty and the special train was run especially for their benefit. It consisted of a sleeper, a dining car, a baggage car, a cook car and kitchen car and after its arrival the whole train was installed in the yards for the purpose of accommodating the strike breakers who will make their home in them. Fifteen more strike breakers arrived on the night train last night.

With the advent of the winter months more machinists are needed as it is said the engines are more apt to break down during the cold weather. At present there are about a hundred and fifty men employed in the machine shop.—Washington Democrat.

MANY TURKEYS ARE READY FOR MARKET

Poultry Men Report Unusually Large Number of Thanksgiving Birds.

PRICE MAY BE LITTLE LOWER

Indiana Regarded as One of Leading Turkey Raising States.

Two weeks from today is Thanksgiving and already many preparations are being made for this annual day. While Thanksgiving is designated as a time for giving thanks, is also the day of big dinners, in which the turkey plays an important part. This year it seems the housewives will have no trouble finding an abundance of Thanksgiving birds, as the reports state that they are more numerous than they have been for several years.

In Jackson county more turkeys are raised for the local markets than for some time, and while the price is not unusually large the owners will be given fair returns for their work.

The cold spring somewhat retarded the "crop" and for a time it was thought that turkeys would not be large enough for Thanksgiving trade. Most wholesale dealers have put a ten pound limit on their buyers and will not accept any of the fowls under this mark. They will charge the retailer 22 cents a pound for dressed turkeys. At this rate, the consumer will pay 25 cents a pound for his Thanksgiving turkey.

Another reason why the price will not exceed that of last year is that chickens are unusually cheap. There are lots of them and the price is lower than it has been for several years at this season. If the cost of a gobble gets too high, people may turn to the chicken.

Few people know that Indiana is the banner turkey State. In point of numbers, Kentucky and Tennessee take the lead, as the hills are full of the roaming fowls but the quality of the Hoosier fowl surpasses all others. Practically the entire supply comes from the southern part of the State, as the northern section is too highly cultivated to permit the birds to roam around. The Indiana gobble enjoys such a reputation that orders come here from San Francisco, New York and Florida.

Thanksgiving Turkeys.

Turkeys are now beginning to come freely as we are now dressing for the Thanksgiving market. It is likely that conditions will be reversed from last year, when the market gradually advanced. This year the high prices are paid at the beginning and any change in the market is more likely to be lower than higher, as the general turkey crop is considerably larger this year. We advise selling large turkeys now and holding small ones for December.

MANY HUNTERS START OUT ON OPENING DAY.

Quail More Plentiful in This Part of The State Than For Several Years.

Today was the opening day of the hunting season and many of the local hunters started out early this morning in search of quail and other game. The farmers declare that there are a large number of birds this year, but that they will be more strict than in other years in allowing hunters upon their farms. Many fields have been posted and the owners say that they intend to protect the quails even if they are required to prosecute the trespassers.

Deputy game and fish wardens are working in this end of the state and are going to demand a strict enforcement of the fish and game laws. There have already been prosecutions for illegal fishing, and it is safe to say that no partiality will be shown to hunters over their angler cousins when they have broken the law.

One of the first precautions to be taken is the procuring of a hunter's license from the clerk. This license should be taken on hunting trips in case the hunter should be intercepted by a game warden. Each hunter, except when hunting on land owned or rented by himself, is required to procure in advance the consent of the land owner or tenant of the land on which he desires to hunt.

Here are some facts that every hunter ought to know:

You can hunt quail with dog and gun between the tenth day of November and the first day of the following January.

You can hunt, destroy or possess ruffed grouse during the same period.

You can not hunt, kill or possess more than fifteen quail in any one day of the open season.

You may hunt wild geese, wild duck, brant or other water fowl from September first to the fifteenth day of the following April.

You can not shoot, kill or possess more than fifteen wild geese, wild duck, brant or other water fowl in any one day of the open season.

You can not kill, trap, possess, sell or offer for sale any wild bird.

You may shoot rabbits from the tenth of November until the first day of the following October.

These laws carry heavy penalties for all violators. The game wardens are soliciting the hearty co-operation of every sportsman to the end that the game may be protected, the laws obeyed and the penalties avoided.

CHRISTMAS IDEAS FOR THE TABLE

SET OF FLOWER HOLDERS FOR THE TABLE.

Red is the Christmas color, and the more vivid a table is the more appropriate. Formerly the tone was given by holly and red ribbon, but lately the poinsettia has superseded everything.

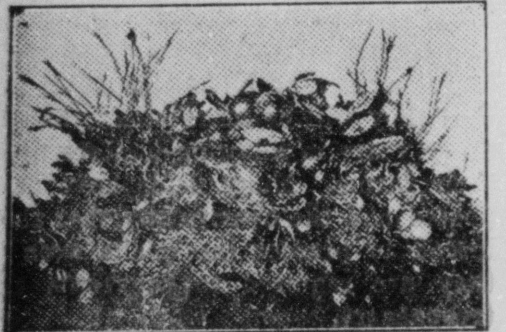

If possible have a huge mass of the natural flowers in the middle of the table. These look lovely when arranged in one of the miniature peach baskets to be had at the florist's, gilded if desired. The effect is heightened by having a bunch of poinsettia at each plate.

If one cannot afford the real flowers or but a few of them they can be made from paper so well as to escape detection, especially if mixed with a few natural blossoms.

The candle shades should be paper poinsettias, edged with red bead fringe. The fees may be served in poinsettia cups on standards representing stem and leaves.

For more elaborate effects garlands of paper poinsettia can be bought and festooned over the windows or from the chandelier to corners of the room. It can also be draped on tablecloth.

For a place card use a poinsettia blossom, with a tiny doll head set in the cup of flowers. Should one not wish to use the poinsettia plants as favors the small red sleds filled with candy are new and attractive. These can also be filled with waxed paper and used for entrees.

CENTERPIECE OF HOLLY, MOSS AND ORANGES.

Santa Claus Table For Grownups.
Here is a table that can be arranged with but little trouble and expense. The centerpiece consists of a toy figure of old Santa Claus standing on a mound of snow made from cotton batting. On this mound are placed little Christmas favors done in tissue paper and sealed with Christmas seals. A wreath of holly surrounds the centerpiece. The place cards are bells, and the nut dishes are made from pink and green tissue paper, while a row of tiny candles surrounds the center of the mound. A large Christmas bell trimmed with holly hangs from the chandelier with strings of tiny chimes reaching to the sides of the table.

A White Christmas Dinner.

If you have had a red Christmas dinner so long that it palls substitute a snow scene in green and silver. Put a long oval mirror in center of table, surround it with miniature evergreens and sprinkle the surface of the mirror with mica snow to represent ice. On the mirrored ponds have Santa Claus on a sled drawn by reindeer.

Dress him in white covered with tinsel, and on his back have a pack filled with small favors. Tie each gift with tinsel silver cord and run it to the various covers with a silvered place card representing a snow scene attached to the other end.

Have a similar mirror masked in evergreens at each corner, and on it stand a silver candle with shade of white paper sprinkled with diamond dust and painted in mistletoe.

Use green and white cakes and candies in silver baskets or have mounds of snowballs made of cotton batting and tinselled or the bought glass filled with nuts and candy. There could be a mound before each plate.

SHOT THE JAILER OF BREATHITT COUNTY

Jack Noble, Gun Man, Adds
Another Victim to List.

Jackson, Ky., Nov. 10.—Wesley Turner, jailer of Breathitt county, was shot and instantly killed by Jake Noble. The results of the election were being announced and hundreds of people were on the streets at the time of the killing. Noble borrowed a pistol from a man who was with Turner, Noble saying he wanted it to shoot in the air to celebrate the Republican victory in the county. When he got the weapon in his hands he shot Turner twice, once through the heart and once through the shoulder. Turner died instantly. Turner was elected jailer last year by a large majority and was popular.

Noble, after the shooting, ran across a bridge and made his escape. This is the fourth man he has killed in this county.

HARMON FOR SENATE

Ohio Governor Being Urged to Make a Set For Dick's Seat.

Cleveland, Nov. 10.—Friends of Governor Harmon, re-elected by so great a plurality that he carried with him Democratic majorities in both houses of the assembly, are urging the governor to accept the senatorial election to Charles Dick's seat. They argue that the governor would jeopardize his popularity by remaining in the statehouse, and that he could as easily seek the presidential nomination in 1912 from Washington as from Columbus.

The senatorial possibilities include Edward W. Hanley of Dayton, state chairman, who controls the organization and can name the senator if he cannot name himself; John R. McLean, owner of the Cincinnati Enquirer and Washington Post; M. E. Ingalls, Cincinnati railway magnate; Atlee Pomeroy, lieutenant governorship nominee; Mayor Brand Whitlock of Toledo; former Governor James Campbell and former Congressman John J. Lentz.

Besides winning the assembly, the Democrats have captured sixteen Ohio congressional districts, leaving the Republicans five, a Democratic gain of eight seats.

THE FLYING BELL.

A Mystery of a Ranch and the New Cowboy.

By CLARISSA MACKIE.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

They were gathered about the supper table in the mess house—Gabriel, "the Crane," Harry Barry and Jim Lewis.

"The Crane" reached forth a long arm and dug a spoonful of sugar from the bowl and conveyed it successfully to his cup of coffee. As he was repeating this difficult feat some sound arrested his hand in midair and the sugar sifted slowly down upon his bacon and fried potatoes. His black eyes were fixed on Gabriel's face with puzzled inquiry.

"Hear it, Gabe?" he muttered anxiously.

Gabriel nodded sullenly. "Never miss it—I don't."

"Last time it was"—Jim Lewis hesitated and waited for "the Crane" to complete the sentence, but Harry Barry, a new man on the Lone Bull outfit, was bursting with curiosity.

"What do you hear, boys? I ain't heard a sound except the bacon sizzling out yonder. You all look clean scared. What's up?"

"Ha'nts," said "the Crane" solemnly. Harry Barry stared. "Ha'nts! Where?"

"Here—on the Lone Bull."

"Is it straight?"

"Listen!" said Gabriel sharply.

Then through the open door there sounded the sweet musical tinkle of a bell. The sound seemed to drift downward from above the house and floated into the silent room with almost solemn intensity.

When it had ceased Harry Barry turned wondering eyes upon his companions. "That's what scared you?" he demanded.

Gabriel nodded. "Sure thing. You don't know half the story."

"You're all plum locoed, every blame one of you—yes, you and you and you and you!" Harry Barry pointed a lean finger at each of them in turn with a contemptuous flip of his thumb toward the shivering cook.

WILL JONES

"I RECKON THIS HERE INSHIASHUN'S ABOUT OVER, EH, BOYS?"

They passed the insult, and this fact seemed to impress the new cowboy with the genuineness of their dread.

He pushed his chair back from the table, rolled a cigarette and lighted it. "Tell it," he said resignedly, and Gabriel appeared to be relieved at this opportunity for unburdening his mind.

"It's this way," began Gabriel, accepting a light from Harry Barry's cigarette and puffing nervously at his own. "You never heard of a Lone Bull chap being scared of ha'nts, have you, Harry?"

"Nary," returned that gentleman impatiently.

"You remember Asa Butler?"

"Sure."

"And Collins and Hayden and Derrick?"

"Yep."

"They're all dead, as you know," said Gabriel impressively.

"I wasn't asking for mortuary statistics," remarked Harry Barry coldly. "I was asking about the ha'nts on the Lone Bull."

"Them's the ha'nts!" interpolated "the Crane" eagerly.

"You mean those chaps come back to hang around this outfit?" drawled Harry Barry skeptically. "What do they want—looking for work, or are they trying to cut out a bunch of cattle? Seems to me that act was Butler's long suit."

Jim Lewis brought his fist down on the table until the dishes rattled. "Let me tell it," he roared impatiently. "If you'll recollect, Harry, all those four chaps died within a year of each other. Every time before one of them died there came a warning, and after the warning they just died."

"What did they die of—the warning or something catching?" grinned Harry Barry impudently. "Seems to me I remember Hayden died of—strangulation at the end of—well, the end of his life, eh? And Butler had shingles, and Derrick fell down into Canyon creek and was drowned, and Collins—I forget about him."

"He was kicked by a steer," explained Jim Lewis gloomily. "Well, every one of them deaths was foretold by this here bell." His voice lowered, and the others gathered closer about the table, listening intently. The cook hovered in the background, fortifying his shattered nerves by long drafts at the coffeepot. "Five years ago," resumed Lewis, "there was seven of us—just like that pome we used to recite at school—and we set around this table much as we're doing tonight, and we heard that bell ringing overhead. We all run out to see what it was, but nary thing was there in sight. It was a dark night, and the sound seemed to drop right down out of the sky."

"Sounded like a sheep bell," commented "the Crane."

"Maybe 'twas a dinner bell ringing in some air castle," remarked Harry Barry innocently, but his grin vanished under Jim Lewis' gloomy scowl.

"You'll laugh on the other side of your face later on, pard. As I was saying, we went out to see what the noise was, and there was nothing to see, only we could hear the tinkle, tinkle, over our heads, and after awhile it stopped, and we went inside, and Butler acted just like you're doing. Harry—he luffed at the whole thing, and six months afterward we planted him—dead from the shingles!"

"I had the shingles lots of times when I was a kid," remarked Harry Barry thoughtfully. "Every time I hooked it from school or went in swimming out of season my dad he'd take down a big flat shingle and—well, go on, Jim. Why didn't all of you die when you heard the passing bell, eh?"

"'Twan't our time; mebbe it'll come next. It's likely to be any one of us that heard it. The next year it was Hayden, and then Collins, and then Derrick. This is the first we've heard it for some time." Jim Lewis borrowed some tobacco from "the Crane" and proceeded to roll several cigarettes with lithe brown fingers.

Harry Barry sat up very straight and solemn. "You mean one of us here is going to die because we heard that bell?"

"Sure thing," answered Lewis, and the others nodded approval.

"Mebbe it will be you," Harry Barry pointed his finger at Jim Lewis.

"Mebbe," said that gentleman, gloomily surveying the smoke stained wall.

"Or you," again pointed Harry Barry, this time at "the Crane."

"I'm looking for it," shivered "the Crane."

"Or you."

Gabriel shrugged his shoulders indifferently. "Quien sabe?" he muttered between his teeth.

"You're a mush hearted lot," sneered Harry Barry, rising to his feet. "If I'd known you'd all sicken and die because you heard a sheep bell"—He stopped short.

Jim Lewis arose to his tall height, with a queer light in his gray eyes.

"Sheep bells don't ring at night out of the sky," he said impressively.

"This bell only rings at night, only once in awhile during the year, and it rings slow like, just tolling, and sometimes there's a groan—a hollow groan—like a soul in torment." He tightened his belt and spoke with lowered voice. "It sounds like it was a bell flying through the air attached to nothing, ringing, ringing—Hark!"

Instinctively they arose to their feet and stood with bent heads in a listening attitude. Then there floated in the soft tinkle, tinkle, growing louder and accompanied by a snoring groan. Once, twice, it seemed to pass close above the mess house, and then it died away into silence.

They all looked at Harry Barry.

He stood rigidly by the table, staring out into the night, his big eyes wide with terror, his mouth open and his chin wabbling shakily. The cigarette dropped unheeded from his limp fingers to the floor, and the minutes passed, and still he stood as if paralyzed with horror of some invisible evil.

Suddenly he uttered an ear splitting screech and dropped to the floor, where he lay motionless as a corpse. They stood in a circle, staring down at him, not one lifting an eye to the other. In the background the cook watched open mouthed.

After a long silence "the Crane" unjoined his long body and stooped above the prostrate man. He laid a hand on Harry Barry's pale forehead and leaped up with a yell.

"What's the matter?" demanded Lewis excitedly.

"Done for."

"You're joking!" insisted the other desperately.

"Try him and see—scart plumb outer his life. Cold as charity and dead as a doornail," quaked "the Crane."

Jim Lewis knelt down and laid his hand on Harry Barry's blue flannel shirt above his heart. He felt of his forehead and winced, turned up an eyelid and shivered. Then his hand went around to his own hip pocket and brought back a flask filled to the neck.

This he applied to the closely locked teeth of Harry Barry and managed to empty the contents down his throat.

"He swallows!" he cried exultantly.

"Fetch me a pail of water, Gabriel!"

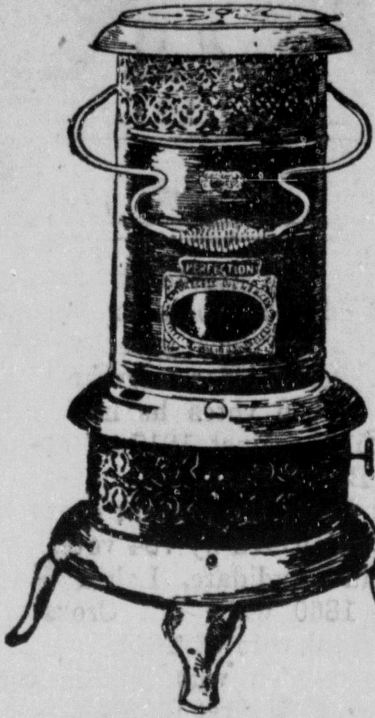

Gabriel turned to obey and then stood still in his tracks. With startling suddenness Harry Barry had returned to consciousness, jerked himself to a sitting posture and rubbed the back of his head thoughtfully. "That there was prime whisky, Jim," he grinned.

"Soon's it touched my throat seems like I heard tinkle bells and groans. I don't wonder you Lone Bull chaps lose your nerve when that old tawny owl from the canyon flies over the house trailing the sheep bell from her claw. I reckon this here inshiasun's about over, eh, boys?"

They grinned sheepishly. "We reckoned you was dead from fear, Harry," admitted "the Crane." "We didn't count on your knowing about that there old bell owl!"

Harry Barry rolled another cigarette. "I oughter explain that I tied the bell on that owl," he drawled meekly.

you do not have to work close to the stove, which is usually far from the window. You can work where you wish, and be warm. You can work on dull winter days in the full light near the window, without being chilled to the bone.

The Perfection Oil Heater quickly gives heat, and with one filling of the font burns steadily for nine hours, without smoke or smell. An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. The filler-cap, put in like a cork in a bottle, is attached by a chain. This heater has a cool handle and a damper top.

The Perfection Oil Heater has an automatic-locking flame spreader, which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back, so the wick can be quickly cleaned. The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged and can be unscrewed in an instant for reworking. The Perfection Oil Heater is finished in japan or nickel, is strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS FOR MOTHER AND FATHER

Everything has its place in the great economy of things, and the useful Christmas present is not barred out. In the great array of gifts spread out to choose from it is not well in every case to be led away from the useful by the mere glitter of brass and crystal.

There are other useful gifts besides collars and pajamas, bathrobes and corset covers. Each person's home life suggests hundreds of needs which do not touch too closely on the personal and which yet may be numbered among the useful.

Why Not Buy Mother a Bag?

Mother can never have too many shopping bags, for they have an unpleasant habit of wearing out very rapidly. Then if she is a mother who likes to keep up to the minute in her fashions she will appreciate a shopping bag such as the model seen in the illustration. Light gray velvet is the fabric used, and it is hand painted in soft colors. The appearance is much like suede, but it is ever so much newer and smarter than the average bag of commerce. The handles are also of the velvet. It is fitted with a long purse between two open compartments.

VELVET SHOPPING BAG.

Gifts in Mourning Jewelry.

When mourning is worn there are useful and attractive gifts to be found in the shops. Among them are black onyx beads, a necklace or a locket chain in gun metal. An umbrella with one of the new gun metal handles is always appreciated. Or what do you think of a dull jet comb for the hair?

For Elderly Women.

If she is an elderly woman a Spanish lace scarf or fichu would be a nice gift. These scarfs come all the way in price from $4 to $15. Down comforters, whether of silkoline or real silk, are a good choice, also a pretty shoulder shawl. If she is a really old lady a lace dress cap or a pair of black kid gloves will suit, or a folding knitting stand may be purchased from $3 up. And for grandma this present is indeed a useful one. Silk or satin for a waist is another gift to be labeled useful.

Furniture Gifts.

A lamp, a mirror, a sewing stand, a magazine rack, a desk and chair, a great easy chair or perhaps a sewing chair, a handsome library table, one of the beautiful bookcases, any of the beautiful rugs offered, a jardiniere or a vase for flowers, a cabinet to hold an overflow of treasures, desk or writing table fittings to harmonize with other furnishings, a framed photograph, an old print or a fine reproduction of a famous painting.

For Soiled Handkerchiefs.

A handkerchief bag is fashioned from half a fringed towel twenty-three inches long and twelve inches wide. This is first embroidered in with small flowers, such as violets or forget-me-nots. Damp and iron on the wrong side, then sew it up and stitch across the bottom. The hoop at the top is half of an embroidery frame six inches in diameter, which is hemmed in by hand. To suspend it use inch wide satin ribbon.

Silver Eyeglass Cases.

A silver eyeglass case would be a happy offering either to father or mother. If father is to receive the case a black leather affair with his monogram done in silver on one side would be most appropriate. Mother would doubtless rather have an all silver case. If the head of the house goes in for athletics give him a golf bag—the one he has may be worn out—or a dozen golf balls and perhaps a new putter; if he's fond of bridge or whist, some packs of handsome cards; watch fob or a brass desk set—and in plain dull brass they're stunning. For the motorist there are auto records and if money's no object piano players and talking machines are on the market waiting for a purchaser.

A Nut Set For Mother.

Mother would be pleased with a set of six paper ice cream cups covered with red crape paper and tied with red ribbon and a spray of holly. These, filled with homemade salted peanuts or candy, would make a charming addition to the Christmas dinner table.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

A SUCCESSFUL LIFE.

"We want to hear less of the man who began poor and amassed riches," observes a modern philosopher, "and more about the man who lived unsullied, though died poor."

Fifty said. And therefore the short and simple annals of a man who lived an honest life and died a poor man:

He never aspired to be rich, and to be rich you must aspire. He was not built to make money. You couldn't have passed laws enough to make him rich, while money just naturally stuck to his neighbor's fingers, and you could not have made laws enough to keep the neighbor from getting rich.

This man asked of the world only a decent living, his own roof-tree and good health.

His utmost earnings in any year did not exceed $1,000, and many years it was less.

Yet out of his savings he paid for his home. He kept his children in school. Each of them was graduated from the high school. After that if one wished to go to college he worked his own way—which was better for him.

This man was honorable in all his dealings. The thought of dishonesty never suggested itself. He paid his modest debts. He worked hard, and he spent little for luxuries.

He helped his fellows whenever he could. He was a good neighbor. He was never heard to complain of his lot. He got what he asked, a fair chance, and was satisfied.

Never did he knowingly commit a wrong against man, woman or child.

He laughed often and he loved much. And when he died men said of him, "He was an honest man and a good citizen."

That is all. Nothing startling in the story, nothing in the even tenor of that life to exploit. He "lived unsullied and died poor."

Whose life was this? It was a life typical of the average man's life.

And was it "successful?" Yes. Notably yes.

Success is a comparative term. If the accumulation of money is to be called success, you must ask, "How did the man get it?" If he got it ignobly, his success is ignoble.

IGNOBLE SUCCESS is only SUCCESSFUL FAILURE. SUCCESSFUL success—real success—is NOBLE success.

THE USEFUL CASSEROLE.

How to Make Cheap Dishes Pleasing to the Palate.

The casserole is a utensil which should be known in the American kitchen.

A while ago the casserole was an expensive imported dish. Now it is made in this country and can be bought for a small sum. Any fire-proof earthenware dish, large or small, with a cover is a casserole or may serve in the place of one. The food cooked in the casserole is sent to the table in the same dish and has won by the process of cooking a savoriness it could hardly gain in any other way.

To make cheap dishes pleasing to the palate is the object of housekeepers at all times, but especially now, when the cruel rise in prices sends us all searching for ways in which to keep our bills down without letting our families feel they are being pinched in their food supply. In this effort the casserole is of distinct service.

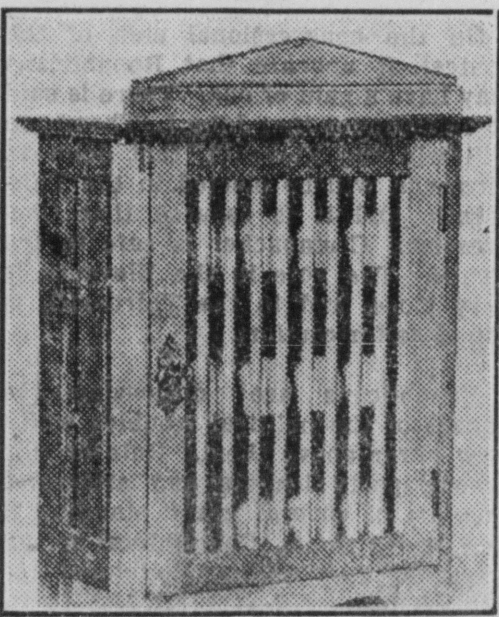

Take, for instance, a casserole of veal. For this you may use the leg pieces or any other cheap lean portions. Cutlet is altogether too good and too expensive. You put the casserole on top of the stove and fry in it an onion in a little dripping and when this is hot lay in the slices of meat and turn them until their surfaces are lightly seared. You arrange the meat and sliced or stewed tomatoes in alternate layers, pour in a cup of weak gravy, cover your casserole and put it in the oven and leave it there for an hour and a half to two hours.

Try the meat from time to time with a fork to see if it is tender. If you choose to add a few sliced mushrooms to the dish you may do it, but it is good without these. At the last turn off the gravy, put it in a saucepan and thicken it with browned flour, add a little kitchen bouquet, pour back over the meat in the casserole, leave this in the oven five minutes and send to the table.

The same plan may be followed with lamb or with liver. Use lamb's liver instead of calf's liver, if you really wish to economize, and fry the onion with two or three slices of bacon, searing the liver in the bacon fat. If you choose you may add balls or dice of potatoes to the dish, parboiling them and putting them into the dish about half an hour before you take it from the oven.

An Up to Date Present.

A dozen new laid eggs may cost a pretty penny the way prices are now, and when fresh eggs are carried to the friend at the hospital or even taken, instead of cheaper fruit or flowers, to an invalid relative at home they are carefully kept, and often each one is marked so that they may not be used for cooking purposes by mistake. A pretty refrigerator stand like the one pictured makes an acceptable gift for the sickroom. Each egg rests separately in a rack, and the ice is packed in a compartment back of the racks. The cupboard closes with a brass lock and key.

The Scrap Book

Willing to Help.

"When I was a young fellow, just beginning the practice of law," said Magistrate House, "two of the oddest characters about the courts were the Cohen brothers, David and Philip. They had a habit of appearing on the opposite sides of the same case. One day when Chief Justice Shay called the calendar in the city court David Cohen answered 'Ready' for the plaintiff in one case, and immediately Philip Cohen answered 'Ready' for the defendant. On the second call David again answered 'Ready,' but Philip answered 'Not ready.' This caused Justice Shay to say: 'Why, Philip Cohen, fifteen minutes ago you were ready. How is it that you are not ready now?'"

"May it please your honor," replied Philip Cohen, "I was ready when you first called the calendar, but since then I have learned that my brother David has fifteen witnesses in court, and I have only twelve. I should like an adjournment so that I may be able to go out and get three more witnesses."

"Whereupon up spoke Brother David saying: 'May it please your honor, if that is all that is worrying my brother Philip the case can go on. I will lend him three of my witnesses.'"—New York World.

Sorrow.

Count each affliction, whether light or grave,
God's messenger sent down to thee. Do thou
With courtesy receive him. Rise and bow
And ere his shadow pass thy threshold crave
Permission first his heavenly feet to lave.
Then lay before him all thou hast. Allow
No cloud of passion to usurp thy brow
Or mar thy hospitality, no wave
Of mental tumult to obliterate
The soul's marvellous calmness. Grief should be
Like joy, majestic, equable, sedate,
Confirming, cleansing, raising, making free;
Strong to consume small troubles, to commend
Great thoughts, grave thoughts, thoughts lasting to the end.

—Aubrey de Vere.

A Familiar Warning.

Mrs. Jones' favorite warning to her young progeny when they were in mischief was that she would tend to them in a minute. "Tending" was accomplished by applying her open hand where it would do the most good. When Harry was four years old he was sent for the first time round the corner to the grocery. In a few minutes he came trotting soberly back with the nickel still in his hand, but no bag of onions.

"What's the matter?" asked his mother.

"I'm 'fraid of the man," he said solemnly.

"Oh, he won't hurt you," reassured Mrs. Jones. "Run along and bring the onions. I'm in a hurry for them."

A second time Harry disappeared round the corner and a second time returned without his purchase.

"I'm 'fraid of the grocer man," he explained as before.

"Well, what makes you afraid of him?" demanded his mother impatiently.

"Why," answered the little fellow, "bofe times when I go'd in he looked at me an' said, 'I'll tend to you in a minute!'"

A Confession.

The late Father Ducey was once eagerly sought, while hearing confessions, by an enterprising reporter for a New York newspaper.

There was a long line of penitents in the church, and the reporter saw that the only way to get a speedy hearing would be to get a place in the line.

At last his turn came. "Father Ducey," he began, "I'm a reporter for the New York Daily Blank!"

"My son," interrupted the cleric, "even that might be forgiven."

Admitted His Foolishness.

It was in Corse Payton's younger days as a manager, when his highly interesting eccentricities were beginning to distinguish him. He had appeared in a small city with his company and was already indulging his habit of making speeches before the curtain. The editor of the leading paper in the town attended the performance, after which, in the sapient manner of his kind, he went forth and wrote a biting piece for his paper, which may be called the Herald.

"Corse Payton," wrote the editor, "is a fool. He looks like a fool and acts like a fool."

This, thought the editor, will embarrass Corse Payton, who will be careful hereafter how he acts.

Yet the next day the billboards bore bills in this wise:

"Corse Payton is a fool.—Herald.
"Of course Corse Payton is a fool for giving a dollar show for 10, 20 and 30 cents."

Scotch Stories.

It was late in the afternoon when the Scotch minister arrived at the farmhouse. The housewife suggested that perhaps he would like a cup of tea before engaging in "exercises." "Na, na," said he. "I aye tak' my tea better when my work is done. I'll just be gaun on. Ye can hing the pan on an' leave the door ajar, an' I'll draw to a close in the prayer when I hear the haam fizin'."

Another woman of Scotland when asked if she had understood the sermon to which she had just been listening replied, "Wad I hae the presumption?"

SHOES

We handle standard lines of shoes made by manufactures who by years of constant effort to make good shoes, have established a reputation that would not permit them to cheapen their product by slipping in shoddy here and there. Shoddy shoes often appear as good as solid shoes. The difference between a solid insole and counter and a shoddy insole and counter may not be over twenty-five cents, yet the difference in wear of the shoe would probably amount to one dollar. Why take chances.

The Republicans of Indiana regret the defeat of Judge H. Montgomery and feel that his absence on the supreme bench will be a great loss. During his term in this high position he has shown himself fair and impartial in all cases which have come before him and has been fearless in standing for what he believed was right. While he has always been in favor of accurate pleadings, his decisions have been based upon a broad and fair interpretation of the law which governed the facts of the contested cases. The attorneys of the state will feel the loss of Judge Montgomery as they knew that when a case was determined by him the decision would be right and that justice would be given to all parties concerned.

As it was not possible for a republican to be elected to the office of attorney general we are, indeed, glad that a Seymour man could be selected for that important position. Mr. Honan has served his party faithfully for many years, and was deserving of an opportunity to make the race for a state office, in which he was successful. To be elected to this office is a distinct honor and we congratulate Mr. Honan upon his success.

The result of the election shows very plainly that the Republicans in Indiana must get together. The state is normally Republican by a large majority, and there is no reason why the party should allow the Democrats to get control if they work together.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

HOW TO STAY YOUNG.

At the age of eighty years Mrs. Amy D. Winship of Racine, Wis., has begun her second year in the college course at Ohio State university.

"W-h-a-t!" you say.

Yes, at eighty years of age. A year ago she went to Columbus, took the examinations and was admitted.

She took an optional course in literature, languages and science. This year she will study philosophy, sociology and literature, making a specialty of Shakespeare.

And why not?

She is a widow, has plenty of money and all her life has regretted the fact that she did not have a college education.

It is never too late!

Sophocles wrote his masterpiece at eighty. Goethe finished "Faust" in his eighty-second year. Lord Lyndhurst made a brilliant speech in parliament on the eve of his eighty-ninth birthday. Lady Grey became an artist when she was an old woman.

Age is of the brain.

Men and women, like certain trees, begin dying at the top.

Of course youth and healthfulness are largely conserved by attention to the physical side of nature; but, given a good constitution—

The spring of life is in the brain.

The mastery of the life forces is in the gray matter in the brain pan. If you excite the brain cells you quicken the circulation of the blood and thus nurture the vital organs, give suppleness to the muscles, pliability to the arteries, light to the eyes—in a word, healthfulness.

So says science.

Therefore if you would stay the forces that break down life keep a young mind. Prevent habit and custom from incising your free spirit. Be captain on deck of your own vessel. Master your body from headquarters.

Mrs. Winship will live longer because of her youthful purpose.

Many a man or woman gives up all interest in life at eighty years or before, shrinks into the chimney corner—and dies long before burial.

Keep a young soul!

Do not brood over the past, find your interest in the present and reach forward into the future.

Do not surrender yourself. Go down with the ship, flag flying!

THE INDIANA LEGISLATURE

Will Be Controlled By the Democrats.

Will Send Kern To Senate

With a Majority of 33 On Joint Ballot the Democrats of Indiana Will Make the Hoosier State's Delegation in the United States Senate Solid—The Full State Ticket Elected by Majorities Ranging Around 15,000.

For Secretary of State—Low Ellingham, Decatur.

For Judge Appellate Court, Southern District—M. B. Hottel, Salem; E. W. Felt, Greenfield.

By majorities ranging around 15,000 the Democrats of Indiana elected the above ticket Tuesday. Without the official count, the returns show that the next general assembly will be Democratic on joint ballot by a majority of thirty-three, which insures the election of John W. Kern to the United States senate.

Unofficial returns show that the Indiana delegation in congress will be twelve Democrats and one Republican, and Congressman Crumpacker, who is elected in the Tenth district, got in by a plurality much smaller than the more than 6,000 given him two years ago.

The Democrats elected to congress were: John W. Boehne, William A. Cullop, William E. Cox, Lincoln Dixon, Ralph W. Moss, Finley H. Gray, Charles A. Korbly, John A. M. Adair, Martin A. Morrison, George W. Rauch, Cyrus Cline, Henry A. Barnhart.

It appears from the returns that the constitutional amendment fixing the qualifications for attorneys was lost, as indicated in Marion county, where the amendment polled only about one-tenth of the vote. The returns from out in the state indicate that even less interest was taken in it than was shown in Marion county.

At Indianapolis

Democrats Made a Clean Sweep in the Hoosier Capital.

Indianapolis, Nov. 10.—There was just nothing to it. The Democrats swept Marion county so clean Tuesday that there will hardly be a speck of Republican dust hanging around anywhere after the first of next year.

Swinging in with pluralities going as high as 6,500 in the case of Von Hake for treasurer over Sourbier, the people of Marion county were so determined in their Democratic trend that they even took out of the courthouse all of the Republican judges up for election this year.

The smallest Democratic plurality, that of Rochford over Judge Vinson Carter, superior court, Room 3, went over 2,000. Woessner won over Hoss in the contest for sheriff by over 5,000 plurality.

There were, as these figures show, wide ranges in the pluralities that the several Democratic candidates got, but the landslide was so big that even the strongest Republican candidate was buried deep and low.

The far-famed "Republican weather" certainly did go bad.

Though Senator Beveridge declined to discuss the result of the election, he seemed to have received the discouraging returns with light heart and in good humor.

While the returns in Indiana were unfavorable to him, he seemed pleased with the fact that the progressives in Indiana had made the best fight of any state in the country. When he was asked for a statement in regard to the result, he let out a yell and a laugh that resounded through the office, but declined to discuss the result.

There was a story afloat to the effect that at the end of his term in the senate he was going to New York to engage in the practice of law.

"Oh, rats," he said, when asked about it. "Oh, rats; nothing ever was false than that."

In spite of the strenuous campaign which he made before the election, Senator Beveridge is the picture of health and does not show wear and tear.

Policeman Used His Gun. Madison, Ind., Nov. 10.—Policeman Sherlock, after being knocked down and beaten by rowdies, drew his revolver and shot John Sullender through the body. He will die.

The express companies' strike in New York is still attended by many scenes of violence on the streets.

HOPE NOT ABANDONED

Chairman Lee Believes That State Ticket Will Pull Through.

[Special Correspondence.]

Indianapolis, Nov. 10.—With the official count awaited to determine whether Indiana is to have a Republican set of state officers or a Democratic outfit at the statehouse, it may not be out of the way to discuss the Tuesday soiree in which political surprises and astonishments were handed out promiscuously. State Chairman E. M. Lee, of the Republican committee, said late last night:

"It is not too much to say, in view of what has happened in New York, Massachusetts and in some other Republican states, that Indiana Republicans should be congratulated on the fact that they stood together as they did. It seemed to be a case of clean sweep for Democrats in most directions. But Indiana Republicans faced the storm unitedly, and it appears that we are in much better shape to take up the fight again, later, than are our fellows in some other commonwealths."

"We believe the Republican state ticket will pull through. Only fifteen counties, in full, have been received. These indicate that the Republican state ticket probably is elected by a reduced plurality as compared with 1906, the last off-year."

The Republicans owe the loss of Marion county, with nine members of the legislature, to Republicans of the Lew Shank city administration in Indianapolis, headed by Joseph B. Kealing and abetted by the police force under Silent Bill Davis. It is notorious that Republicans who went to vote in many precincts in Marion county Tuesday found the gangways at the polling places blocked by Taggart heels who refused to give way.

Appeals were made to the police in vain. In one instance the outraged citizens called for police from the station. The officers, when they arrived, coolly informed the voters that they could do nothing without orders from the Democratic inspector of the precinct.

It was the same way in all the Taggart precincts. The bruisers were there to see that Taggart's men won. That was the short of it, and the Shank-Kealing-Davis police helped out the steal.

In spite of all this treachery and intimidation, the legislative Republican ticket ran well in Marion county—probably showing up some 3,000 ahead of the county and state tickets in the county.

Vanderburg county turned and stung the Republicans, and the blow from that end was a hard one. The largest brewery interests in the state are at Evansville, and the repeal of the county option law was the one thing in the brewery mind down that way Tuesday.

The Democrats probably have the legislature by ten or eleven on joint ballot. While the Republicans lost some ground, at the same time the Democrats have lost unexpectedly in several spots.

Hancock county, home of Stokes Jackson, Democratic state chairman, was only carried on the Democratic legislative ticket by 72 votes. This is a remarkable situation and one of the strange freaks of a freakish campaign.

Republicans lost heavily in most of the cities, and made remarkable gains in some Democratic rural strongholds. It is the see-saw nature of the gains back and forth that gives the uncertainty to the count and which makes it possible for the Republican state ticket to carry.

Democrats are not claiming the state ticket with the same sureness displayed in the early hours Tuesday night. They have found out, as the actual votes begin to appear, that the contest is exceedingly close, and that so far as is known, the Republicans are in the lead.

On the congressional side of the contest, it appears that Republicans may have a gain of one. There is said to be a chance that John L. Thompson will win the Eleventh, that John L. Moorman will be elected in the Thirteenth, and it is assured that Congressman Crumpacker is safe in the Tenth. The vote in the Eleventh is very close, and in the Thirteenth is too close for comfort.

Republicans are discussing the causes of the political troubles which now lower above them. Rule or ruin among party leaders and attempted bossism of several years' standing is one reason given. County local option, alienating a large liberal element and failing to draw ungrateful drys to replace them, is another cause mentioned.

The tariff law and the criticism of the law, with a feeling that the Democrats may as well be given a chance to punish the Republican high tariff extremists, is another. The high cost of living is a part of the tariff malady. Taken all around, Republicans feel that in Indiana they not only kept their heads, but kept their alignment pretty well, as compared with the party in other states.

One of the contributing woes of the campaign was a confusion of oratory and ideas, puzzling to the voter and more or less tending to disgust the citizen who listened and who failed to gain enlightenment.

The Durbin-Pinchot joint debate on a Republican rostrum is a case in point. Naturally, Standpatter Durbin is accused of spilling the progressive Republican beans.

Great Britain, France, Spain and Italy have formally recognized the Portuguese provisional government.

PRETTY CHEEKY.

At Least the Senator's Demand Struck
His Colleague as Such.

Soon after the convening of a new session of congress announcement was made of the approaching marriage of Anson G. McCook, who was then secretary of the senate. A subscription was immediately started among the senators for the purchase of a wedding present. Two or three prominent senators volunteered to collect the money.

Senator X, one of the richest men in the senate at that time, was one of these.

Seeing a new senator who had not yet been approached on the subject.

"THAT MAN BEATS ALL!"

Senator X. went to him and said, "Senator Blank. I want you to give me $25."

"What for?" demanded the new member.

"For McCook's wedding present," explained Senator X.

"I'll see you about it tomorrow," answered Blank, with a scowl.

"All right," said Senator X. as he walked away. "but don't forget it."

Senator Blank watched him until he was out of hearing and then, turning to his colleague, remarked with warmth:

"Well, I've heard of cheeky things in my life, but that man beats all.
What do you think? He just asked me to give him $25 to buy a wedding present for his cook!"

A Preventive Measure.

Six-year-old Harriet announced her intention of giving up her German lessons with fraulein.

"She hugs and kisses me all the time
I'm at lessons, and—ugh—I do hate Dutch!" Harriet explained.

Father, who is something of a diplomat, reasoned with her. "See here, my little girl, I have read German and French with fraulein ever since I was your age, and she has never tried to hug or kiss me."

"Father," observed the child dryly,
"you had better touch wood."—Success Magazine.

Why He Applauded.

A characteristic anecdote is told of Cherubini, the most jealous of the irritable genus of composers. He had been prevailed upon to be present at the first representation of the work of a confrere, and during the first acts, which were much applauded by the public, he had kept a gloomy silence.
The third act was less favorably received, and a certain passage especially seemed to cast a cold blanket over the spectators, when the old maestro, to the astonishment of his friends, was seen to applaud heartily.

"Do you really like that duo?" asked one of them. "I should have thought it was one of the poorest and coldest in the whole opera."
"You idiot," answered the maestro, with genuine naivete, "don't you see that if I did not applaud it he might possibly cut it out?"

Stage Repartee.

Paris actors are very fond of saying things to one another on the stage which will confuse them and make an answer very awkward. A few days ago, during the progress of a costume play, one of the actors who was wearing a sword knocked the thunder plates down in the wings.

Thunder plates are sheets of tin which are shaken to produce thunder, and the noise of the fall of a couple of them can be imagined. The king, who was upon the stage, turned to one of the pages and laughingly asked, "What ever is that?"

To his surprise the page, who, as stage pages often are, was a charming young lady in real life, answered,
"Thirty deaf mutes are down below sire, asking for conversation with your majesty."

The king, without moving a muscle, although the audience laughed, replied,
"Are you quite certain they are dumb?"

"They say so, sire," replied the page with great solemnity.

"Well," said the king, "they make an awful noise about it."

What She Should Do.

Bertie had been forbidden under severe penalties to play in the rain barrel, but the other day, sad to relate, his mamma and grandmother found him splashing in it in high glee. His mamma's face hardened, but the grandmother's kind heart led her to make a plea for the offender.

Bertie heard the plea, and when his mamma asked him sternly what she should do to a little boy who did not mind what was told him he answered promptly:

"I think you had better mind your mamma."

Mr. Otto Paul, Milwaukee, Wis., says Foley's Honey and Tar is still more than the best. He writes us, "All those that bought it think it is the best for coughs and colds they ever had and I think it is still more than the best. Our baby had a bad cold and it cured him in one day. Please accept thanks." A. J. Pellens.

A Scandal Spoiled.

"My husband didn't get home until 2 o'clock this morning," remarked the lady with the weary eyes.

"Indeed?" exclaimed the other lady, delightedly anticipating the narration of a family rift. "And what did he say in explanation?"

"Nothing. I came home with him. We had been to a theater and to a late supper afterward."—London Answers.

Many school children suffer from constipation, which is often the cause of seeming stupidity at lessons. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets are an ideal medicine to give a child, for they are mild and gentle in their effects, and will cure even chronic constipation. Sold by Andrews-Schwenk Drug Co.

The Age of the Harp.

The harp, which was suggested by the lute, is ascribed to Jubal, 3875 B. C., and was King David's favorite instrument. The harp was used by the Welsh and Saxons and also by the ancient peoples of Ireland. One of the oldest harps in existence is in the Dublin college museum and originally belonged to Brian Borohme, king of Ireland.

The old, old story, told times without number, and repeated over and over again for the last 36 years, but it is always a welcome story to those in search of health—There is nothing in the world that cures coughs and colds as quickly as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Sold by Andrews-Schwenk Drug Co.

Civil Service.

"Maria," said Boggles to his wife with an idea of instructing her in political economy, "do you know what civil service is?"

"Jasper," said Mrs. Boggles, with memory of recent contact with the cook, "there isn't any."

Lame back comes on suddenly and is extremely painful. It is caused by rheumatism of the muscles. Quick relief is afforded by applying Chamberlain's Liniment. Sold by Andrews-Schwenk Drug Co.

How He Avoided It.

"Have you ever been hissed off the stage?" asked the girl who was thrilled at having met a real actor.

"Oh, no," he replied. "When I'm off the stage I always try to be among friends as much as possible."—Chicago Record-Herald.

ADMINISTRATION IS UP AGAINST IT

Sixty-Second Congress Will Give Taft Cold Comfort.

EVEN SENATE MAY DESERT HIM

With Majority of Fifty for Democrats in House and Insurgents, Who May on Occasion Act With Democrats, Holding Balance of Power in Senate, Recent Election Returns Have Given Administration Leaders a Shock.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Throughout the life of the sixty-second congress President Taft will be threatened by the opposition of both branches of the national legislature. This is clearly indicated in the returns of Tuesday's elections, and is a matter of grave concern to administration leaders. In the new congress the house will be Democratic by a majority of fifty-six. A gain of nine Democratic votes will in all likelihood be registered in the senate. The present Republican majority in the senate is twenty-six. The election of nine Democrats to take the place of Republicans reduces the Republican majority to eight. The indications are that the Democrats will elect one senator in each of the following states: New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana, Nebraska, Missouri, Nevada, West Virginia and Maine. The senate therefore in the new congress will stand fifty Republicans and forty-two Democrats. There is in the senate now and will be in the sixty-second congress, a group of militant insurgents. Six of these insurgents joining with the Democrats would reduce the regular Republican strength to forty-four, and increase the Democratic-insurgent vote to forty-eight, thus wresting control of the senate from the regular Republican leadership. The Republicans who may be expected to join with the Democrats on occasions are La Follette, Cummins, Bristow, Clapp and possibly Borah. There are other Republican senators who it is expected may in connection with certain classes of legislation join the Democrats and take away control from the responsible Republican leadership. They are Brown of Nebraska, Crawford of South Dakota and Nelson of Minnesota. In addition it is pointed out here that Miles Pindexter of Washington and Asle J. Grona of North Dakota, who now represent their states in the house and are to go to the senate, are insurgents of the most radical type. Judging from their past records, they are likely to join with the Democrats on the slightest provocation.

While administration leaders are making no comment for publication, they admit privately that the Democratic house and a senate that may at times be in control of a majority composed of Democratic and progressive Republicans, will doubtless make it impossible for the president to put through his legislative program.

President Taft has left for Panama and will return Nov. 28. It was known for some weeks that the president and his advisers were fearful of a Democratic landslide. They gave consideration to a plan of reorganization, and statements have been made that the leadership be entrusted to a man who would give all his time to the work of repairing an organization that is now badly battered. The subject will be further discussed on the return from Panama. A conference will be held at the time, and it is the understanding here that all factions of the party will be invited to take part. In the meantime Mr. Taft, as the titular head of the party, will bend every effort to healing the differences among the Republicans.

Politicians here look forward to a bitter fight over the speakership when the Democrats assemble in Washington in December, 1911, to organize the house. The New York contingent in congress is expected to launch a speakership boom as an offset to that of Champ Clark. Among politicians here the belief is expressed that Governor-Elect Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey looms up as the strongest contender for Democratic presidential honors.

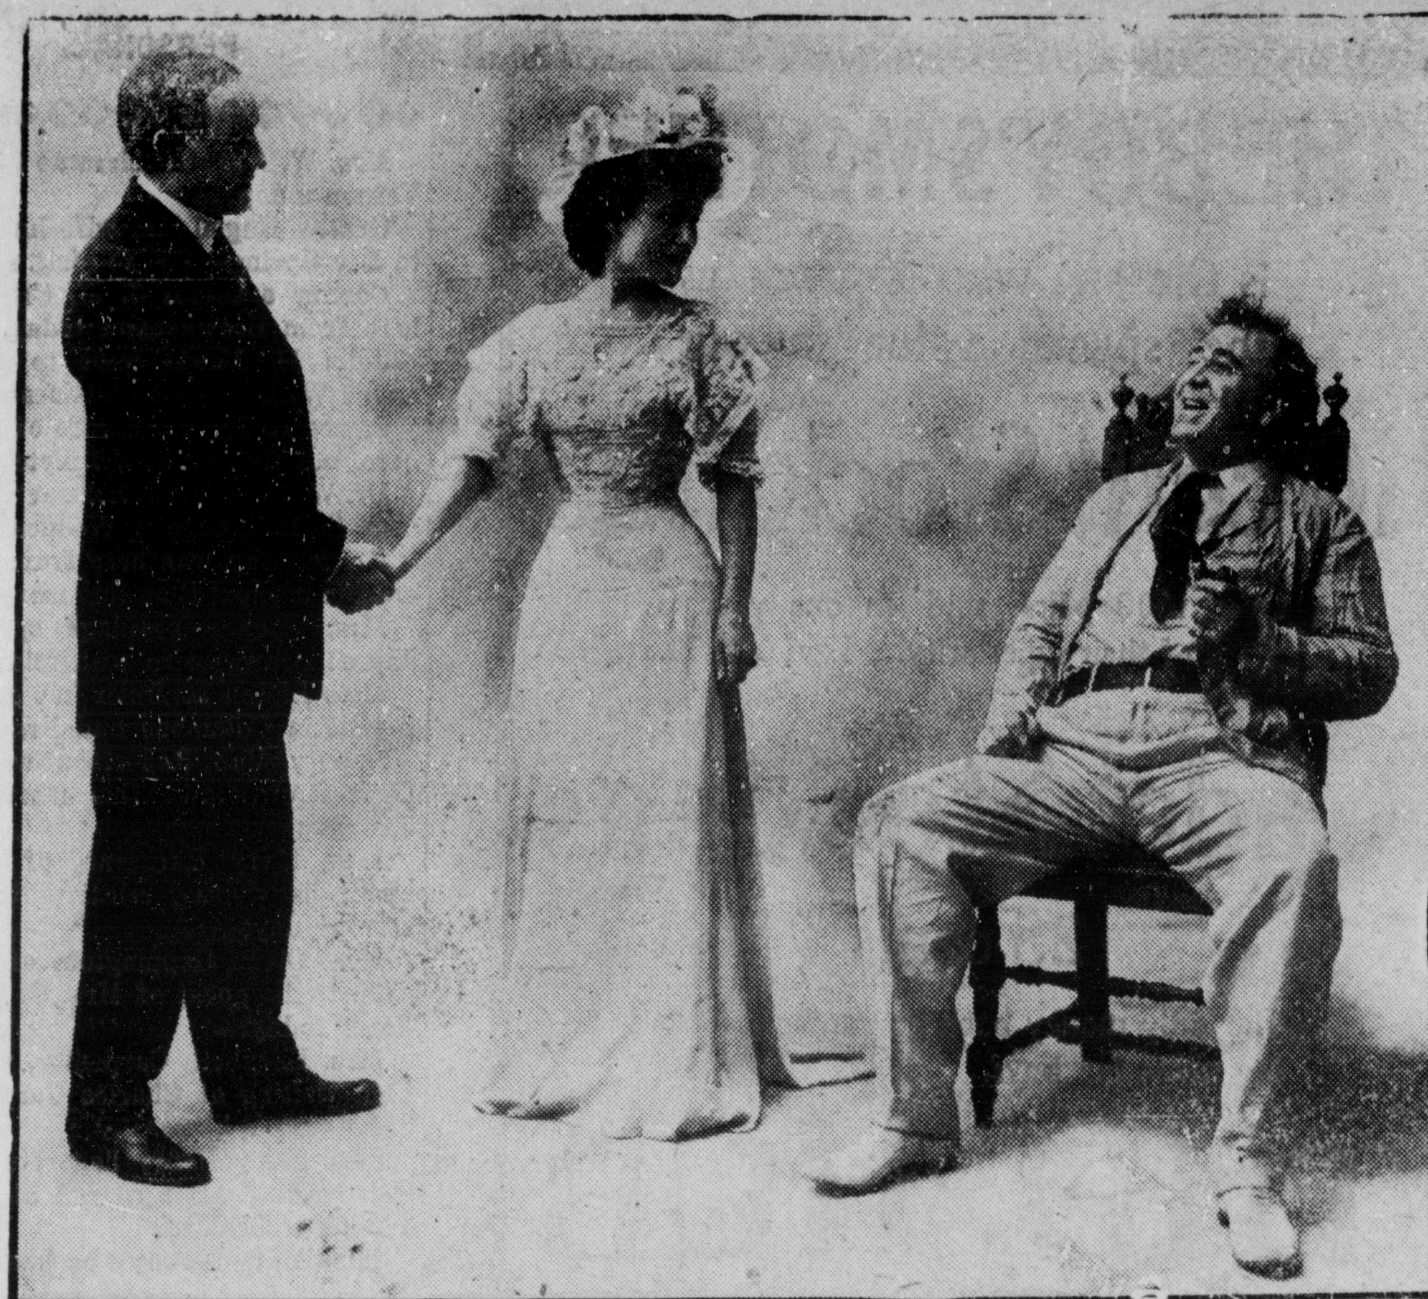

HOXSEY'S CLOSE CALL

Aviator Dropped 2,000 Feet at the Baltimore Meet.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 10.—Arch Hoxsey had a narrow escape from death while contesting for the grand altitude prize at Helthorpe. When about 2,000 feet from the ground the engine jammed and stopped, and Hoxsey started to glide, but had gone only a short distance when the propeller stopped. The 20,000 spectators saw something was wrong as the machine began to descend with frightful rapidity. Apprehending a fatal accident, some women began shrieking and the greatest excitement prevailed. The aviator and his machine dropped in a plowed field. Hoxsey was little the worse for his experience. The machine, however, is a wreck.

An Ardent Minister.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 10.—Mrs. Julia H. Bailey has filed suit for divorce, alleging that her husband, the Rev. J. J. Bailey, one of the best-known Methodist ministers of the state, is too violent in his love-making.

Scene from "Paid in Full" at the Majestic Theatre, Monday, November 14th.

Wild California.

The geography published in 1812 contains the following startling description of that section of our country which Charles Dudley Warner baptized "our Italy:"

"California is a wild and almost unknown land, covered throughout the year by dense fogs as damp as they are unhealthy. On the northern shores live anthropophagi, and in the interior are active volcanoes and vast plains of shifting snow, which sometimes shoot up columns to inconceivable heights."

The book adds that some of these statements would seem incredible were they not so well authenticated by trustworthy travelers.

When the Negro Was Created.

The Mexican Indians, as well as those of most of the Central American republics, have a superstition to the effect that the negro was made before either the white man or the Indian or even before the sun was created. They account for his color by declaring that he was made and dried in the dark. Their own race, they say, was made in the morning of the first day between daylight and sunup. On this account they delight in a time which they apply to each other and which signifies "dawn people." The white man, they fear darkness and cannot stand heat. "He was made, according to their belief, at noon on the first day of creation."—Exchange.

Two of Them.

A Baltimore man recently called at a friend's house where the stork had recently arrived.

"Hello, Tom," was the effusive greeting of the caller. "What is it—boy or girl?"

"Guess," said the father.

"Boy," ventured the caller.

With a sad smile the new parent added, "Old man, you're only half right."—Harper's Magazine.

The House of Crony.

In France the family of Crony Chanel boasts of descent in direct line from Adam's third son, Seth. They say at the time of the deluge Noah took their family title deeds into the ark. At their chateau may be seen a picture of that event, wherein one of the drowning men waves a scroll above his head on which is inscribed, "Save the title deeds of the house of Crony."

A Fashion Chat on Smart Waists

Furnished by Pictorial Review

222 West 39th Street, New York City

There is abundant evidence that the silk tailored waist will be a stronger note in the fall and winter fashions than heretofore. New features are introduced, those little details that tell the style and age of waist or gown, new materials are employed and smart neckwear is worn with them. A tailored coat suit possesses double usefulness when it has a smart silk or satin waist matching it in color or general tone for morning wear, and another waist of a dressy character to wear with the same suit for a more formal occasion when the coat is to be removed. The tailored linen waist sometimes has tucks or plaits or it may have embroidery. Foulard has struck a new note in tailored waists some of the new style waists being of this highly prized material; the ground matches the color of the suit and it has a white or other contrasting figure. Riplette is the name of an improved form of what used to be known as seersucker. The improved new fabric has a crinkly stripe and a smooth one and like other crepey materials it does not have to be ironed.

The magyar or peasant style, having the body and sleeve in one, is one of the most favored for these waists and they often have some kind of a shallow yoke of lace or embroidery. Waists of Persian and Indian printed satin with or without chiffon over them are worn with tailored suits, and another waist that is very stylish for the tailored suit is made of fancy plaid cashmere or silk. It is on the plain shirt-waist order without trimming of any kind and having the conventional box plait. It has shirt sleeves, rather small narrow cuffs and are worn with a narrow plaited frill of lawn or of the waist material. Small silver or gilt buttons are frequently used for the closing. A waist made of marquisette printed in Persian or oriental figures can be of the simplest style, yet be elaborate looking on account of the beauty of this material. These figured effects are made over plain colored foundations.

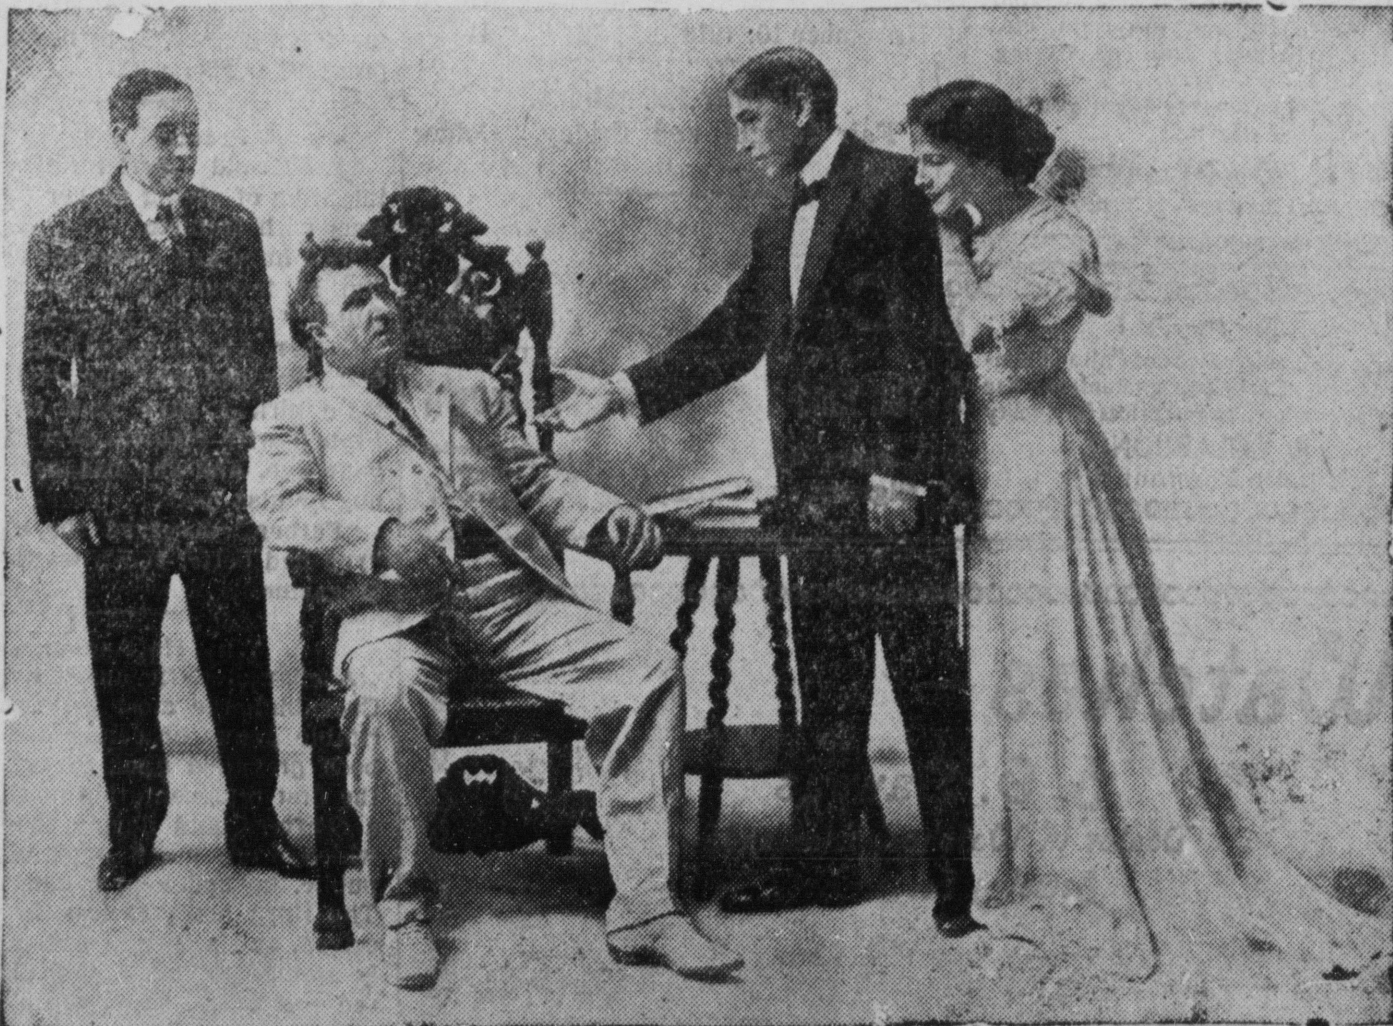

PICTORIAL REVIEW PATTERN No. 3619 is a suitable shirt waist design for white linen with hand embroidery, and for fall, plaid silk will be very smart. It closes at the back and has a high standing collar and long sleeves, but the pattern also provides for round neck and three quarter length sleeves. It is cut in sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure, and the medium size requires 2 1/2 yards of 27 inch material. The embroidery design is No. 11443, price 25 cents.

Dull blue satin with very narrow folds of Persian silk was used for the shirt-waist made by PICTORIAL REVIEW PATTERN No. 3607. It has a yoke which is straight in the back and shallow in front with a deep point at each side. The frill which trims the closing can be made detachable. It has shirt sleeves and is without a lining. The usual shirting materials silk and dull satin, are adaptable. Sizes are 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure, and the medium size requires 2 1/2 yards of 36 inch material, 2 3/4 yards of material 27 inches wide.

CRIS OF FRAUD IN PENNSYLVANIA

Tener's Election To Be Contested By Independents.

THEY SAY BERRY WAS ELECTED

Revised Figures Have Cut Down the Republican Candidate's Plurality From 80,000 to 13,000, and Not Only That, but the Berry Folk Say Their Man Was Elected by at Least 70,000 if Votes Had Been Counted.

Pittsburg, Nov. 10.—Revised figures have cut down the plurality of John K. Tener (Rep.) for governor to 18,000 instead of 80,000, which had been confidently predicted by the state leaders. The Keystone party leaders claim that Tener was not elected at all, and that they will have little trouble in proving frauds at the polls in Pittsburg and Philadelphia. They openly assert that Berry was elected by at least 70,000 plurality, but that the organization machines counted him out in favor of Tener. In Pittsburg preparations are being made to contest the election of Tener at many different points in the state, and if possible to secure an entire new count. Several arrests for alleged crooked work at the polling places have already been made in Pittsburg, and more are threatened. It is asserted by those interested in the matter of making arrests that in many precincts of Pittsburg the election boards gave the count to Tener without going through the formality of looking at the ballots and checking them up.

HITCHCOCK ELECTED

Nebraska Also Will Return Democratic United States Senator.

Lincoln—Incomplete returns indicate the election of Hitchcock for the United States senate by 15,000 to 20,000; Aldrich (Rep.) is elected governor by a majority approximately 25,000 over Dahlman, mayor of Omaha.

The probabilities are that the entire list of Republican nominees is elected. Will Hayward, secretary of the Republican national committee, was defeated for congress in the First district by Congressman McGuire by a few hundred votes. Loebeck (Dem.) wins in the Second; Latta (Dem.) is re-elected in the Third; Sloane (Rep.) is elected in the Fourth; Congressman Norris is re-elected in the Fifth. Doubt exists as to Congressman Kinkaid's re-election in the Sixth. County optionists claim to control the legislature.

Oregon's Reversal of Form.

Portland—Early returns, which indicated the election of Jay Bowerman (Rep.) as governor, have been reversed by later count, and Oswald West, Democrat, has carried the state by approximately 1,100. A. W. Lafferty, insurgent Republican, has defeated John Manning (Dem.) by 6,000 majority for representative in congress from the Second district, while W. C. Hawley, regular Republican, from the First district, has been returned to congress by a handsome majority. State-wide prohibition has been defeated by a 2 to 1 vote, and woman suffrage was also defeated.

Democratic Senator From W. Virginia.

Wheeling, W. Va.—The Democrats will have fifty-one votes in the West Virginia house of delegates and fifteen in the senate. The Republicans will have fifteen votes in the house and the same number in the senate. Already Democratic leaders have begun to align themselves for the United States senatorial fight, which unexpectedly has been thrust upon them. John J. Cornwell is the choice of the Democratic delegation from this end of the state.

Rhode Island Republicans Shocked.

Providence—Rhode Island, as the result of Tuesday's election, remains Republican, but by a narrow margin. Governor Pothier was re-elected, but his Democratic opponent made such great inroads in the 11,769 plurality that Pothier got last year, that his margin was only 903. The state assembly remains Republican 86 to 51.

Johnson Carries California.

San Francisco—The Republicans carried California and indications point to a plurality of 20,000 for Hiram W. Johnson, the Republican candidate for governor, over Theodore Bell, his Democratic opponent.

THE AMERICAN BOY SCOUTS.

At last the modern boy has found the organization that meets his spirit of adventure. That is why the boy scout movement has far outstripped in popularity and rapidity of growth every other public enterprise originated in recent years. Wherever you go today the boy scouts are familiar figures as they march along together clad in their uniforms of khaki.

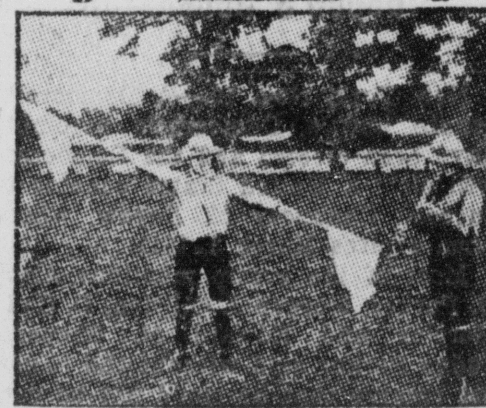

The American boy scout movement, like that of its British prototype, is one of character building in the youth of the land. It is a movement toward a better and cleaner citizenship among the youth that there may be a better manhood. It is also a movement for education for the lads of the nation, to give them better ideals and better discipline of themselves.

Growth of the Boy Scouts.

The organization of the boy scouts in this country is already far advanced. England has 300,000 boys enlisted, and the lads of the United States are joining the movement so rapidly that they bid fair soon to surpass the English army in numbers. Recently in

BOY SCOUT SIGNALER MAKING THE "AN-NUL" SIGN.

BOY SCOUT SIGNALER MAKING THE "AN-NUL" SIGN.

New York 10,000 khaki clad youngsters turned out to celebrate the anniversary of Columbus. The marchers were divided into many distinct brigades to show the scout in his various stages of progress. There were cavalry corps, infantry, scout bands, bugle corps, bicycle corps and a Red Cross corps. The parade was reviewed by Major General Frederick D. Grant, United States army. It is estimated that more than 500,000 spectators saw the boy scouts in martial array.

Boy Scouts In the Field.

When the boy scouts go into the country on expeditions they learn many useful things. The use of the compass and the ability to find shelter in a storm are among the early instructions. They must learn to cook and provide their food where possible, to sleep in the open and be prepared to eat coarse food. They are shown how to build bridges and boats, to scale mountains, climb trees and know the stars by night so as to find their way through the darkness. Besides, they must know how to rescue a drowning person, to stop a runaway horse, to cleanse a wound, to splint a fracture, what to do in case of poison, how to treat cuts, the bites of animals and stings of insects, and, above all, they are taught the abuse as well as the use of firearms.

Five National Departments.

To accomplish this work as a national factor the American boy scout is divided into five departments—the department of New England, the department of the Atlantic, the department of the middle west, with departments of north and southwest to complete this organization. Each department is controlled by a committee of prominent citizens, who give to it its character. They commission state organizations by charter, which in turn commission county, city and town organizations, the whole organization nationally being directed by the national committee, whose headquarters are at 239 Broadway, New York.

Forming an Organization.

When the boys of a community desire to form a patrol of boy scouts the procedure is simple. Three or five men form a committee and begin enrollment. The next step is to procure drillmasters from the national guard or among the retired army officers. Then the work begins. The boys, after they are kept under observation for several weeks, are permitted to don the uniform, which consists of khaki, durable, well made, the hat, coat, leggings, knickerbockers and haversack being of the same material and color. Upon the left sleeve is worn the American boy scout emblem and American eagle bearing a sheaf of goldenrod, an American shield upon the eagle's breast with the letters A. B. S.

From coast to coast this is the official uniform; but, of course, patrols may add to it as their fancy and funds dictate. Each patrol finances itself along lines of individual preference and ability.

HERE IS A REMEDY THAT WILL CURE ECZEMA.

"We Prove It"

Why waste time and money experimenting with greasy salves and lotions, trying to drive the eczema germ from underneath the skin when the A. J. Pellens Drug Store guarantees ZEMO, a clean liquid preparation for external use to rid the skin of the germ life that causes the trouble? One application will relieve the itching and often times one bottle is sufficient to cure a minor case of eczema.

In over 2,000 towns and cities in America, the leading druggist has the agency for ZEMO and he will tell you the marvelous cures made by this clean, simple treatment. ZEMO is recognized as the cleanest and most popular treatment for eczema, pimples, dandruff and all other forms of skin or scalp affections whether on infant or grown person. Will you try a bottle on our recommendation? A. J. Pellens Drug Store.

What Would You Do?

In case of a burn or scald what would you do to relieve the pain? Such injuries are liable to occur in any family and everyone should be prepared for them. Chamberlain's Salve applied on a soft cloth will relieve the pain almost instantly, and unless the injury is a very severe one, will cause the parts to heal without leaving a scar. For sale by Andrews-Schwenk Drug Co.

The Word "Gent."

At one time the word "gent" was a reputable term for general use. A respectable writer in 1564 tells of "a supper to divers gentlemen of the Gray's Inn for the great amitie between them and the Middle Temple gents." The diarist Evelyn speaks of the "noise and tumult occasioned by three or four wild gents in drink." Soon after Queen Victoria's accession "gents" became vulgar. Thackeray speaks of it in 1842 as an "affectionate diminutive at present much in use among commercial persons."

A Household Medicine

NEW YORK CONCERNED OVER NEXT SENATOR

Several Names Mentioned As Depew's Successor.

New York, Nov. 10.—A Democratic senate and a Democratic assembly have been elected and the Democrats will elect a United States senator to succeed Chauncey M. Depew, whose term expires March 3, 1911.

Most of the gossip mentions Alton B. Parker, Morgan J. O'Brien, D. Cady Herrick and Edward M. Shepard. Judge Parker said without the slightest reserve that he could not be considered as a candidate for Senator Depew's place, and explained that he could not afford to give up his law practice to accept even so high a public office as United States senator. Morgan J. O'Brien told his friends the same. Then there was mentioned John B. Stanchfield, the Democratic candidate for governor in 1900, but Stanchfield is a busy man and it was also suggested that the fact that since Mr. Stanchfield's partner, Frederick Collin, had been elected associate judge of the court of appeals, it might be as well to look elsewhere for a senator.

The men brought to the surface living were in a semi-conscious condition, but rallied under stimulants and will recover. It is not known exactly how many miners were entombed.

HOW CHRONIC COUGHS

Are Being Cured by Vinol—An Ac- count of One Case.

New Haven, Conn.—"I was troubled with a most persistent chronic cough for a long time and had tried so many remedies and prescriptions without benefit that I was discouraged. I was persuaded by my friends to try Vinol. I must say that I had little confidence, but I made up my mind to give it a fair trial. Before I finished my first bottle of Vinol I commenced to notice an improvement in my general condition. After taking the second bottle, my cough left me, and I must say I never felt better in my life,—all due to the use of Vinol. I can also recommend Vinol to anyone in a run down condition as the best possible remedy." (Name furnished on request.)

It is the combined action of the medicinal elements of the cod's livers aided by the blood-making and strength-creating properties of tonic iron which makes Vinol so efficient in curing chronic coughs, colds and bronchitis—at the same time building up the weakened, run-down system. Vinol contains no oil and tastes good.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. Andrews-Selwenk Drug Co.

A Quaker Girl's Yes.

A young Quaker had been for some time casting diffident glances at a maiden of the same persuasion, while she, true to the tenets of her upbringing, had given him mighty little encouragement. However, one day the opportunity of placing the matter upon a more stable footing presented itself to Seth, and he shyly inquired, "Martha, dost thou love me?"

"Why, Seth, we are commanded to love one another," quoth the maiden.

"Ah, Martha, but dost thou feel what the world calls love?"

"I hardly know what to tell thee, Seth. I have tried to bestow my love upon all, but I have sometimes thought that thou wast getting more than thy share."

Perfectly Calm.

"Now, remember, William," his wife cautioned when he had found his slipper, "that it is very wrong to punish a child in anger. You must be perfectly calm when you administer the chastisement."

"Oh, I'll be calm all right," he said as he started upstairs, gritting his teeth.

"I'll be the calmest man in seven states, but if you attempt to interfere when he begins to yell I'll welt you too. Confound it, I'm going to show you who is boss around this place!"—Chicago Record-Herald.

What Cures Eczema?

We have had so many inquiries lately regarding Eczema and other skin diseases, that we are glad to make our answer public. After careful investigation we have found that a simple wash of Oil of Wintergreen, as compounded in D. D. D., can be relied upon. We would not make this statement to our patrons, friends and neighbors unless we were sure of it—and although there are many so-called Eczema remedies sold, we ourselves unhesitatingly recommend D. D. D. Prescription.

Because—We know that it gives instant relief to that torturing itch.

AMERICA FINALLY PAYS OVERDUE TRIBUTE TO HEROIC STEUBEN

Statue of "Drillmaster of the Revolution" Soon to Be Unveiled in Washington.

German Who Abandoned Wealth and Rank For Battling Colonies Died in Poverty.

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

THE monument to Baron Steuben to be unveiled in Washington on Dec. 12 is a tardy recognition of that great soldier's services to American freedom. In fact, all the recognition ever given to Steuben was tardy. After the Revolution he was left to starve for years, but finally congress voted him a belated annuity of $200 a month. Several states gave him tracts of wild lands which would be valuable enough in a century, but on which he could scarcely have realized a cent at the time.

Yet he retired to live on one of these tracts in New York state, where he erected a log house. At his death he was buried in the forest, and there was nothing but a cheap slab to mark his grave. Years later the enterprising citizens who settled in the vicinity wanted a road and did not hesitate to run it directly over the grave. Then the German-Americans and a few other patriots took up the body, removed it to a distant knoll and erected over the new grave a monument. This was kindly defaced by relic hunters until even the name was gone.

This tribute to Steuben was not the only example of our gratitude.

that is his due. He gave up his estates and his career in Europe to come to America, went into our army as a volunteer, although he had been an aid-de-camp of Frederick the Great and a lieutenant general in Europe, and took a musket in drilling our raw soldiers, although that was supposed to be beneath an officer and fit only for a sergeant.

After the battle of Yorktown, which he had helped to win, Baron Steuben was so poor that he had to sell his war horse to get enough money to give a dinner to his brother officers. But now we are building him a monument, so perhaps it is all right.

This monument stands on the northwest corner of Lafayette park, which fronts the White House. On the other corners of the park stand the statues of Lafayette, Rochambeau and Kosciuszko, three more gallant foreigners who came to help us in our struggle for independence.

Baron Friedrich Wilhelm von Steuben was the son of a soldier and was born in a military camp in 1730. He studied in Jesuit colleges, where he excelled in mathematics, and at the age of fourteen enlisted as a soldier, becoming a cadet at seventeen and an adjutant general with the rank of cap-

Lafayette was allowed to languish in a German prison for years with no effort by America to have him released. The same was true of Thomas Paine, except that he was imprisoned in France and one American, James Monroe, did come to his rescue when Paine would soon have been released anyway. To repay France for coming so nobly to our aid John Adams, Hamilton and Washington proposed to make war on her less than twenty years after the Revolution ended.

As for Paine, the real author of the Declaration of Independence, when he returned to America it was to be neglected and lied about more cruelly than perhaps any character in history. No wonder the world talked about the "ingratitude of republics."

In the case of poor Steuben we are about to make up for our shabby treatment of him by building him a monument 116 years after his death. That should help us square ourselves with our consciences, though it does little good to Steuben. Perhaps he was great enough not to need our gratitude or rewards, so if we save our own consciences the debt will be settled so far as he is concerned. Whether we build monuments to him or not, his fame is secure.

Perhaps our children's children may emerge far enough from our sordid selfishness to see some things as they are, and then the "drillmaster of the Revolution" will be accorded the fame

Liverpool Saves on Cotton.

In the weighing of cotton bales at Liverpool the expressing of weights in terms of pounds only has effected a saving of a cent per bale.

London Applauds Motor Bus.

The motor omnibus is rapidly displacing all other vehicles for cheap transportation of people in London. The new form of it resembles a touring car in having wire wheels, with a saving in weight of about a hundred pounds on each wheel.
